

All information included in this site is owned by Delta and is protected by Copyright. The use of the material herein is allowed as follows: (1) provided the below expressed copyrights statement is included in all documents where the material is used, as well as in all copies thereof; (2) the use of the site material is made exclusively for information or disclosure purposes, without commercial or personal nature and the material is not copied or installed in any network system or divulged in commercial media, and (3) provided no alterations are made. It is strictly forbidden the use of the site material for others purposes than those here defined and allowed. Non-compliance with this obligation, namely in case of abusive use, counterfeiting or illegal competition will be subjected to legal procedures. It is expressly forbidden the reproduction of any images, illustrations, text or configuration of the www.delta-cafes.pt site or any other site belonging to the group, or operated, licensed or controlled thereof.

The elements of this website are protected pursuant to the general terms of the national and international law on Copyrights and Related Rights, Intellectual Property Rights and Illegal Competition, not being allowed their reproduction or copy, either in whole or partially, nor its use outside the scope allowed herein. No trademark, image, logo, graphic, sound or image in any Delta site can be copied, reproduced or retransmitted without the previous and express authorization of Delta, who is the owner of such rights. Any requests regarding the reproduction of any site contents must be addressed to Delta webmaster.

DISCLAIMER

Delta has made all reasonable efforts in order to ensure that the information included herein is accurate and updated. However, nor Delta nor any third-party involved in the creation, production or delivery of the site, or of any other related site, can take any responsibility, either express or tacit, regarding the purpose and/or manner of use of the information included in the site material.

All material included in the site is presented “as is” without any type of warranties. Delta, as well as any third parties involved in the site, waive any responsibility or condition regarding the site material, including any warranties regarding negotiability, adequacy to a certain purpose, title and non-violation.

Any access or use of the contents herein is under the responsibility of the user. In any case will Delta and/or the third-parties involved in the site be responsible for any special damages, either direct or indirect and any relevant consequences deriving from the loss of use, data or profit, either through an action or contract, negligence or indirect action resulting from or related to the use or performance of the information provided in this site.

Any documents and corresponding graphics published in this site may include technical uncertainties or typographical errors. Alterations to the information included herein are performed periodically. Delta and/or the third parties involved in the site may at any time, make improvements and/or alterations in the product(s) and/or program(s) described herein.

INFORMATION ON SOFTWARE, DOCUMENTS AND SERVICES AVAILABLE IN THIS WEBSITE

In any case will Delta and/or the third-parties involved in the site be responsible for any special damages, either direct or indirect and any relevant consequences deriving from the loss of use, data or profit, either through an action or contract, negligence or indirect action resulting from or related to the use or performance of the software, documents, terms or lack of service provision or information provided in this site.

LINKS TO OTHER SITES

Links in this area allow you to exit the Delta site. These links are not controlled by Delta and therefore no body in the Group will be responsible for the contents of such links, or any related links, or any alterations or updates of such sites.

No entity at Delta will be responsible for the disclosure through Internet or any other means of transmission received through such sites links. These links are provided to the user only for convenience purposes and the inclusion of any link does not imply Delta approval thereof.

TRADEMARK

Trademarks of delta products referred herein, either appearing or not in bold or with the trademark symbol ®, are registered trademarks of Delta bodies. The real names of the companies and products referred herein may be trademarks of the relevant owners.

The use of such registered trademarks and of the Delta name and logo, except when used pursuant to the authorization referred herein, is strictly forbidden and may be understood as a violation of the law.